

Southern Signs Survive Super-Storm Sandy

November 7, 2012, Longwood, Florida

The devastation left in the wake of Sandy is heartbreaking and we all feel for the people whose lives were lost or torn upside down.

Over the past several years, Southern has supplied the City of Newark, NJ with a large number internally illuminated street name signs as part of the revitalization of the downtown. We were pleased to learn that our Thin LED signs survived the storm and were fully operational. We were asked to supply three replacement lenses which shipped within 24 hours of the request from the city. We were proud to contribute our small contribution to restore normal life to New Jersey's largest city.

We wish the affected citizens and communities a rapid recovery and renewed prosperity.

For more information about Southern Manufacturing and our products, please visit our website at www.southernmfg.com or email us at contactus@southernmfg.com.